

426

Search the web

Hearing Aids
www.besthearingaids.caInside
BuzzAura

AdChoices

The Independent

+ Follow

View Profile

US 'will retaliate with devastating strike' if Putin follows through on nuclear threat

Maryam Zakir-Hussain - Yesterday 8:46 p.m.

58

79

The United States will hit back at Moscow with a “devastating strike” if Vladimir Putin follows through with his threat to use nuclear weapons in Ukraine, the US Army’s former commander has warned.

It comes as the Russian president today sent a chilling warning to the West, threatening to use “all the means at our disposal” to protect itself.

He also said, “it’s not a bluff” when he vowed that Russia would use its weapons of mass destruction if its territory was threatened.

58

— Russian president today sent a chilling warning to the West, threatening to use nuclear power (Russian Presidential Press Service)

© Provided by The Independent

He continued to accuse the West of “nuclear blackmail” and claimed “high-ranking representatives of the leading Nato states” had talked about the possibility of using weapons of mass destruction against Russia.

If You Like To Play On Your PC, This Old-School Strategy Game Is

“To those who allow themselves such statements regarding Russia, I want to remind you that our country also has various means of destruction,” Mr Putin said.

Following Putin’s warning, retired Lieutenant General Ben Hodges said the US could destroy Russia’s Black Fleet or its bases in Crimea “in a devastating strike”.

58

Continue reading

SPONSORED CONTENT

MORE FOR YOU

 News 360

Belarus blocks its exports for six months

Belarus will ban from Friday, September 23 and for six months the export of different equipment, from means of transport and...

14

17

 cbc.ca

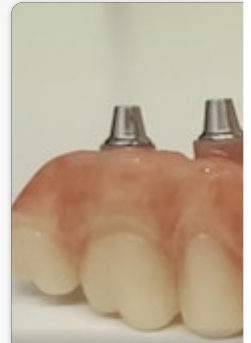

Woman stabbed to death inside Mississauga store ID'd as Chandanpreet Kaur, 22

21

12

Toronto: Dental Giving Away

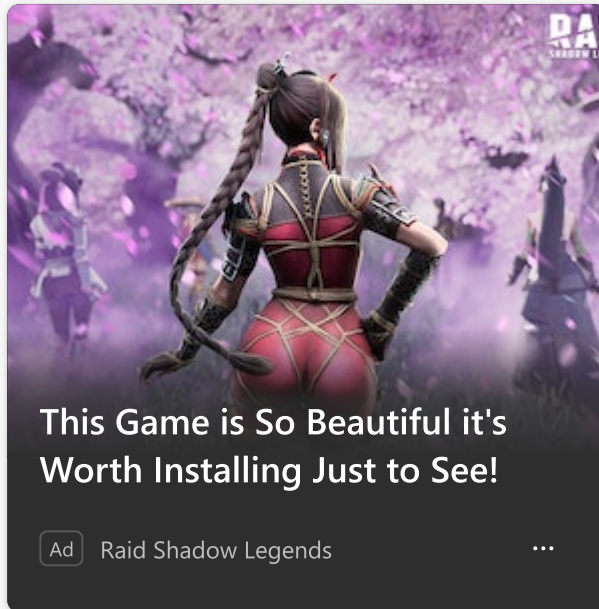

Ad

Dental Implants

Canadians under 74 with No Life Insurance Get a $250k Policy...

Ad CA Life

This Game is So Beautiful it's Worth Installing Just to See!

Ad

Raid Shadow Legends

 The List

Camilla's Reconciliation Reportedly C

It's no secret Prince William's stepmother, queen, somewhat troublemaker

44

 58

The Washington Post

+ Follow

View Profile

Putin faces fury in Russia over military mobilization and prisoner swap

© 2022 Microsoft

Privacy & Cookies

Terms of use

Advertise

 Feedback

Robyn Dixon, Mary Ilyushina, David Stern - 5h ago

React

20

Russian families bade tearful farewells on Thursday to thousands of sons and husbands abruptly summoned for military duty as part of President Vladimir Putin's new mobilization, while pro-war Russian nationalists raged over the release of commanders of Ukraine's controversial Azov Regiment in a highly secretive prisoner exchange.

Putin faces fury in Russia over military mobilization and prisoner swap
© Olivier Morin/AFP/Getty Images

As women hugged their husbands and young men boarded buses to leave for days of training before potentially being deployed to Russia's stumbling war effort in Ukraine, there were signs of mounting public anger over the mobilization, which is supposed to call up 300,000 reservists or more.

58

More than 1,300 people were arrested at anti-mobilization protests in cities and towns across Russia on Wednesday and Thursday, in the largest public protests since Russia invaded Ukraine on Feb. 24, while Kremlin spokesman Dmitry

"false information."

"The information about a certain feverish situation in airports is very much exaggerated," Peskov insisted during his daily conference call with reporters on Thursday.

— Russian police in St. Petersburg on Wednesday detain people protesting a military mobilization calling up 300,000 reservists or more.

© Anatoly Maltsev/EPA-EFE/Shutterstock

But there were other signs of increased public pushback against Putin and his war, despite the Kremlin's harsh crackdown on dissent.

In the city of Togliatti, a military commissariat, or local military recruitment and draft office, was set on fire, one of dozens of similar attacks across Russia in recent months, indicating the depth of antipathy to military recruitment efforts.

58

 Continue reading

SPONSORED CONTENT

MORE FOR YOU

ES

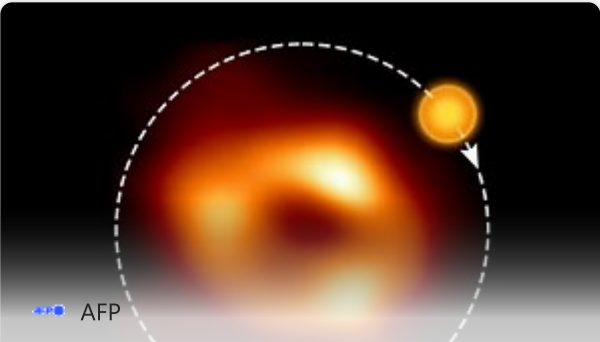

Evening Standard

Russian foreign minister Sergei Lavrov walks out of UN meeting after defending war in Ukraine

4

...

 AFP

Hot gas bubble spotted spinning around Milky Way black hole

3

...

 CBS News

South Korea hot mic critic

 58

109

© 2022 Microsoft

Privacy & CookiesTerms of useAdvertise

 Feedback

https://www.msn.com/en-ca/news/world/us-will-retaliate-with-devastating-strike-if-putin-follows-through-on-nuclear-threat/ar-AA126pDH?ocid=msedgnt... 7/8

 Breakfast Television

Sid's message regarding comments he made about PM Trudeau

 59

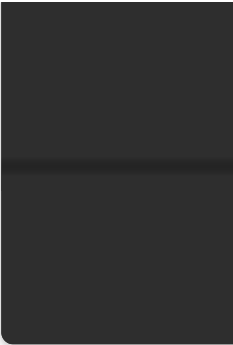

...

ITN

Margot Robbie: "London ended up being my Amsterdam"

 2

...

 BANG Showbiz

'Virginity can't be taken away from you. Virginity is so strong in.' T

Call them old fashioned. People still choose the night of their

 61

 58