

How to Make Your MSP Business More Competitive & Profitable

Get eBook

>>

 AdChoices

Newsweek

+ FollowView Profile

Russians 'No Longer Able To Resist HIMARS': Front-Line Ukrainian Mayor

David Brennan - 17h ago

76

Share

Save

The mayor of a city in Ukraine has said Ukrainian soldiers' efforts are causing difficulties for Russian forces ahead of a future counteroffensive.

© Miguel Medina/Getty

Ukrainian soldiers on the top of a Ukrainian armoured fighting vehicle gesture as they drive down at the exit of Kramatorsk, eastern Ukraine, on July 6, 2022, amid the Russian invasion of Ukraine. Ivan Fedorov, the mayor of Melitopol, took to Telegram on Monday morning to say that more than 100 Russian soldiers had been killed following an attack using "high-precision HIMARS

Ivan Fedorov, the mayor of Melitopol, took to Telegram on Monday morning to say that more than 100 Russian soldiers had been killed in recent attacks using "high-precision HIMARS [High Mobility Artillery Rocket Systems]."

He shared multiple videos alongside his message that appeared to show the missiles being fired. This comes as the war between Ukraine and Russia nears the 6-month mark following the decision by Russian President Vladimir Putin to invade the country.

Continue reading

Sponsored Content

Zurelief Joint Support Formula

Ad umzu.com

Antarctic Star 4.5 Cubic Feet Mini
Fridge Bever...

Ad RWFLAME

MORE FOR YOU

Your IQ Is 140 If You Name 10 Of These Historical Figures

Ad Auto Overload

These Are Things That Are Normal In Japan But Strange...

Ad Investing.com

Roundtrip, C

Ad expedia.com

 Daily Mail

Limping Putin appears unable to use his right arm during outing

177

 The Telegraph

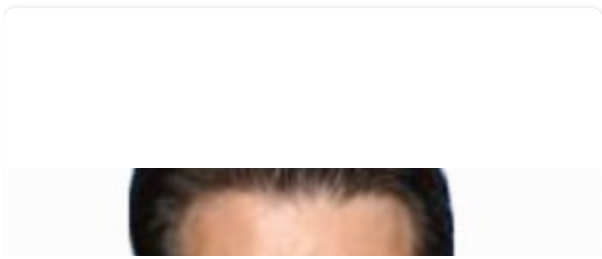

Russian-appointed Kherson mayor 'was poisoned by chef'

69

 Global News

Car with 2 lo stopped in M say

25

 CBS News

Arkansas judge found dead at bottom of lake

158

 CNN

US Navy recovers jet blown off aircraft carrier from bottom of ocean

A US Navy team recovered a military jet from a depth of 9,500 feet in the Mediterranean Sea on August 3 after the...

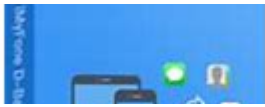

18

Trust TransU
Special Offer

Ad transunion.ca

iMyfone D-Back (ios) For Windows - A Safe & Reliable...

Ad iMyfone

Dental Health Plans - Good

A senior foundir
according to two

Forbes

+ Follow

View Profile

The Ukrainians Are Hitting The Russians Where They Aren't

David Axe, Forbes Staff - 14h ago

React

|

37

Share

Save

The Russian army in Ukraine apparently is shifting a third of its forces in eastern Ukraine to southern Ukraine in order to defend against Ukrainian attacks in the south.

© Provided by Forbes

The Ukrainian army's 93rd Brigade around Iziom. Ukrainian defense ministry photo

But that's exposing gaps in Russian defenses in the east. And now the Ukrainian army reportedly is exploiting those gaps, especially around Sloviansk and Iziom. Hitting the Russians where they aren't.

In pressing these attacks, however, the Ukrainians risk overextending their own forces.

"Ukrainian forces are likely taking advantage of the redeployment of Russian forces away from the Sloviansk axis and conducted localized counterattacks to regain ground southwest of Iziom and northwest of Sloviansk on Aug. 4," the Institute for the Study of War in Washington, D.C. reported.

The purported Ukrainian counteroffensive around Iziom, reportedly involving the 93rd Brigade and other units, at best has liberated a few villages such as Dibrovne, Mazanivka and Dmytrivka.

But the eastern counteroffensive belies what ISW described as a more profound shift in Russia's wider war in Ukraine, which began in late February.

Continue reading

Sponsored Content

MORE FOR YOU

 Newsweek

Russians 'No Longer Able To Resist HIMARS': Front-Line Ukrainian Mayor

76

 Newsweek

Putin Finds Scapegoat in U.S. HIMARS, Builds Case for War With West

18

 Newsweek

Fact Check: Is North Korea Sending 100,000 Troops Against Ukraine?

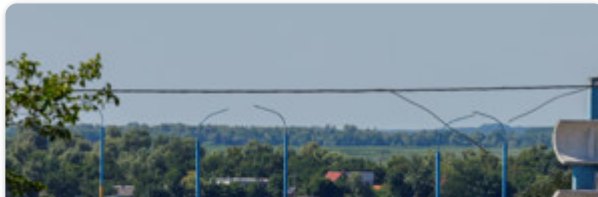

6

 Daily Mail

Limping Putin appears unable to use his right arm during outing

177

 Reuters

Ukraine says it hit Russian troop bases, key bridges in overnight strikes

190

Car with 2 lo stopped in M say

Peel Regional Pc
strategic tactical
conducted a traf

